What Is A Rockhound?

WHAT is a Rockhound? He is a special breed--he is hunter, collector and craftsman. He loves Nature's hills--but is always trying to bring them home! He appreciates natural beauty--but is never satisfied until he has polished it! He is a safety-minded citizen--but is willing to scale a mile-high cliff for the special specimen!

A Rockhound has the natural swapping instincts of a pack-rat, the agility of a mountain goat, the generosity of a philanthropist, the immunity to rain of a duck, and the perseverance and patience of a Job (especially when that crystal is impossibly imbedded in that nug!)

A Rockhound has a house whose rooms are overflowing with rocks of every size and shape--filling display cases, tables, chairs, drawers, kitchen sink and basement. The BIG ones crowd his porch, back yard and garage. You can always recognize his car by its sagging axle and its thick coating of dust.

A Rockhound is generally considered an ODD-BALL by non-rockhounds, a NUISANCE by farmers and quarry superintendants, an UNLIMITED SUPPLIER by jewelry-loving wives, and a BOON COMPANION by other Rockhounds!

WHAT is a Rockhound? He is a POLITICIAN--with a mineral club ambassadorship, a VISIONARY--with a diamond saw; a PIONEER--in a station wagon; a WORLD EXPLORER--in his own back yard! But most of all, the ROCKHOUND is a person who searches for, finds and cherishes forever those bits of chemical beauty called Rocks and Minerals, which afford him a glimpse of--Infinity On A Shelf!
